INTRODUCTION TO ATHLETE'S MANAGEMENT SYSTEM

The journey of an athlete left huge trail of information and never without people namely coaches, managers and scientists working hard behind him. Managing athletes, people and performance data surrounding them can help athletes to achieve more out of their true potential. Databases with ability to capture, store, manage, retrieve, integrate, analysis, interpret, report and disseminate the information is critical to performance management and decision making. Such system should be an integral part of a sports ecosystem where all data will make sense and people communicates in getting and delivering what is best and needed for the athletes. The session will introduce the Athletes Management System, discuss the barriers to the effective data management and review the responsibility of all people surrounding the athletes.
